CARRYING MAILS IN ALASKA. One of the Carriers Tells Something

About Its Difficulties. From the Alaska Searchlight. The difficulties and hardships of carrying the mail in the Arctic during the winter season is shown in a letter from T. Constantine Healy, manager of the Yukon Express and Transportation Company. The letter, which was written at Dyea, February 17, tells how the party started from Juneau December 16, reaching Dyea two days later. Owing to a disagreement among the ratives as to rates for packing, the party had its luggage freighted to the head of the canon by Healy & Wilson's pack train, and then the natives were offered $15 per 100 pounds to the summit six miles.

$15 per 100 pounds to the summit, six mile "The weather, which was northerly," says the letter, "continued so severe and blustering that they did not care to take the job, so between the head of the canor and Sheep Camp we put in our time till the middle of January trying to move our out-

them $6 per 1(0) ponds from Stone House to the summit, a distance of one mile. "At Big Rock, on the other side of the "At Big Rock, on the other side of the summit, Mr. Gasch and I bade good-bye to Mr. Stewart and native, and started out for this side. We reached the place where we had pitched our camp at the head of the canon, had our supper, and were complimenting ourselves on finally getting teams across the range, when about 8 o'clock in the evening the Indian appeared, surprising us very much. His statement face, which was freezing. He finally turned back. Stewart was compelled to do the same, after pling the outfit so that it could be found. It was 11 p.m. when Stewart arrived in our camp, and it was indeed a pleasant surprise, as he was so far be-hind the native that we had almost given him up. He had his ears and fingers badly

"After holding council, Mr. Gasch and myself returned to Healy & Wilson's post that night. Here we found Harry Davis, that night. Here we found Harry Davis, whose services we immediately secured, bought another dog from one of the natives, and started out to try the summit again. Davis and Stewart and Joe, the native, got over the summit on the 23d, and are now on their way down the lakes, as the Indians report going good on the other

"This is only giving you a simple outline of our difficulties. The wolverines got into our cache at Stone House, and carried off all our dog food, as well as a Winchester rifle. With this and much other bad luck, you can judge what kind of humor we are you can judge what kind of humor we are in. We wish you and the people to understand that we bucked the sumimt of the range from December 20 to February 2. We did as well as any men could do, and better than a great many, finally succeeding. We are trying to do the people of the Yukon valley a service in giving them a regular mail route. We shall not be caught again as we were this winter, as we are going to have caches made at regular ingoing to have caches made at regular tervals of seventy or eighty miles all along the river, which will enable us to travel much lighter."

Green Stones in Favor.

From the Manufacturing Jeweller. Green stones are the fashion just now of these, of course, first comes the emerald, for green diamonds and green sapphires are too rare and small for modern jewelry. Nothing can equal a really fine emerald--rich, dark, velvety and glossyyet it is said that a flaw or fault almost always lies in the stone, and an emerald without a flaw is priceless. Next to emerald without a flaw is priceless. Next to emerald come peridots (the French name for Indian chrysolite). These stones are particularly soft and they are difficult to cut and polish. Peridots, when really fine in size, depth and color, are lovely stones. They are a clear, deep leaf-green, showing almost vellow beside the blue terms.

They are a clear, deep leaf-green, showing almost yellow beside the blue tone of color of the emerald. Few peridots are now brought into the market, and those sold are usually cld stones recut and reset in modern fashion.

Both emeralds and peridots are "step cut," with a large broad table of center space. The chrysoprase is pretty, but lacks depth of coloring. The reason the emerald and peridot make lovely ornaments is that they can be set round with sparkling diamonds to show off their lovely coloring, but pale stones like the chrysophase or beryl have to be set plain by themselves, as they will not bear the contrast. About twenty years ago a fashion came in of setting peridots with enamel and surrounding them with pearls. This fashion now seems to have returned.

An Afflicted Family. From the Lewiston (Me.) Journal

There probably is not a family in New England whom fate has used so hard as the

Irving sisters of Oldtown, two of whom were struck down by a murderer's blows this week. The Bangor Commercial is given this outline of their sad history: First the homestead was burned down, leaving them with only an unfinished shed for shel them with only an unfinished shed for shelter. Then two of the sisters, who had moved to Oldtown to keep a millinery store, were burned out and lost all they had. Then three other members of the family, all women, were capsized from a boat in Pushaw stream, right in front of the house, and drowned, and, finally, this dreadful tragedy

SUBURBAN NEWS from the District of Columbia Union, and ANACOSTIA.

A terribly distressing accident, resulting in the death, late Wednesday night, of Francis, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Moore of Anacostia, occurred Tuesday evening. In some way, as yet not known, the child, who was but three years of age, secured a box of matches and took them to play with a little distance from his home. A man driving along the street heard screams and noticed that the little boy was on fire. The man at once went to the rescue of the child and succeeded in putting out the flames with his heavy driving gloves. The child was quickly taken home and Dr. S. Harrison summoned. An examination showed that the poor little fellow was burned so horribly that he could not survive long, but everything possible was done to relieve his sufferings. He lingered in great agony until late Wednesday night, when death came to his relief. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are almost prostrated by their sudden and heartrending bereavement, and the sympathies of a large number of the attraction. large number of the citizens of the town rave been extended to them.

The funeral will take place this afternoon from St. Teresa's Church, of which the distressed parents are members, and the services will probably be conducted by Rev. T. B. Hughes.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the W. C. T. U., held yesterday afternoon. The occasion was made particularly attractive by an address given by Mrs. Clinton Smith and several readings by Mrs. Wescott, both of which were heartly appreciated. Mrs. Chas. G. Lynch was made delegate-at-large to the quarterly meeting in Georgetown, which will take place the first part of next month. Mrs. John T. Hare and Mrs. Thomas were also elected delegates, and Mrs. Rhine and Mrs. Larner alternates. The meeting was a very enjoyable one, and much business was transacted.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey gave a pleasant party to their two sons, Fred. and Arthur, last night. The early part of the evening was devoted to games and social amuse-ments. To the strains of a march played by Mrs. Godfrey the children walked into the dining room, where a bountiful repast was spread. This was a very pretty sight, for the girls wore light gowns of various shades, and both girls and boys wore on shades, and both girls and boys wore on their heads fancy paper caps, the souvenirs of the evening. Among the many little ones present were Kathleen Noel, Marie and Katharine Brown, Floy Noteman, Marie Howe, Edith Brown, Grace Nelson, Ruby Schwier, Ina Stalee, Marion Godfrey, Wargaret Marsan and Loure De Margaret Marean and Laura De Pue Raymond De Pue, Edmond Wolfe, Stanley Marean, O Witten, Roy Wolfe, Frank and Willie West and Joseph Noel.

LAUREL. A mad dog, belonging to Mr. Andrew Flester, was killed, after an exciting chase, by Mr. James R. Tighe this week in the barn on his place near Laurel. The dog had been wandering around the neighborhood of the Tighe farm for several days and had bitten a number of dogs. Mr. Tighe discovered the animal in the dog house of his rabbit hound. He immediately secured a revolver and fired at the dog, which ran off. Mr. Tighe followed the dog, firing at him several times with no apparent effect. He was joined in the chase by the Wooten boys, with guns. The dog, af-ter being lost sight of several times, was finally located in the Tighe barn. Mr. Tighe fired at the animal twice while in Tighe fired at the animal twice while in the barn, the last shot proving fatal. After killing the mad dog, Mr. Tighe took out his rabbit hound and killed it also, fearing that it had been bitten by the mad dog when it was in the dog house. The farmers in the neighborhood were greatly relieved to learn that the dog had been killed, as it was feared it would bite the horses, cows and other stock. A number horses, cows and other stock. A number of dogs have been shot in the neighbor-hood of the Tighe residence, for fear that they had been bitten by the mad dog.
The pupils of the Laurel night school will the Sunday school hour at the Methodist Church Easter Sunday. The time will be passed with music and recitations and other features appropriate to the occasion. Mrs. Hospital, who has always been found capable at such times, has this matter in charge.

The remains of Mrs. Joseph Baumer, who died recently, were taken from the vault Wednesday and burded in the family lot at Mount Olivet cemetery.

Miss Eva McDowell of Bristol, Tenn., is the guest of Miss Lottie Fillmore of South Brookland, with whom she will remain for some time.

A new feature has been recently taken up in the first, second and third grades at the Brookland school in the form of water color painting. So far the work has been principally confined to mixing colors and mainting figures and easy objects. The second and father Mrs. E. E. Keller and father Mrs. George Mrs. In the mass does not be used as a high school was received with great satisfaction by Laurelians generally. Senator Bowie's bill appropriating $1,200 annually for the high school is still pending in the senate, but it is believed the senate will pass the measure. This school will be open not only to pupils who have graduated from the public schools of Laurel and this county, but to those of the southern Maryland counties as well. Laurel has endeavored to secure an institution of this kind for some time, and its hopes of having a high school are brighter now than they have ever been before.

A NAVY FOR CUBA. Commerce Destroyers to Be Fitted Out When Belligerency is Recognized.

From the New York Tribune. A well-known member of the Cuban junta, who lives in Brooklyn, threw out a strong hint yesterday that just as soon as the United States recognizes Cuban belligerency a navy will be provided within a short time to prey upon Spanish commerce and fight the Spanish navy in the waters of the Atlantic ocean surrounding the is-

It is understood that for many months, or. in fact, almost ever since the present war began, the junta has had a list of available vessels owned by different contries which could be purchased for war purposes. Among this number are three or four menof-war. They are not warships of the Indiana or of the Massachusetts class, but under the modern interpretation of naval terms they would, perhaps, be called second-class cruisers, with sufficient armament and protective power to give the majority of the Spanish navy a good tussle in a fair fight. The junta officer, who refused to al-low his name to be mentioned in connec-tion with this story, said that within two months of the time that the administration recognized Cuba the Spaniards would meet a naval force which, while not at all extena havai force which, while not at all exten-sive, would be strong enough to give them plenty to do. It is manifest that the Cubans would in the beginning pursue the same tactics that Gens. Gomez and Maceo are carrying out with the land forces. They are carrying out with the land forces. They would, of course, avoid battle with the more formidable of the Spanish warships, but their main object would be to prey upon the commerce of Spain.

The Cubans, having no commerce on the high seas, would, of course, have a great advantage in this respect. It is the intention to fit out a certain number of privateers, just how many it is not known, outside of the junta, and probably at this time the junta itself does not know. However, locked in a strong safe in New York is a list of merchant vessels which could easily be converted into cruisers powerful enough to inflict great damage on Spanish commerce. It is asserted that already arrangements have been made with one or two ments have been made with one or two leading heavy ordnence manufacturers to ship guns to certain points with the least #### possible delay when the time arrives. Mark Twain on Prohibition From the Westminster Gazette.

Mark Twain has just concluded a lecturing tour in New Zealand. He said goodbye to the New Zealanders at Christchurch, and in the course of his speech made reference to prohibition, which he said he approved, but which would put them into most difficult straits. He then told the following story:

lowing story:

In our country, several years ago, there was a man who came into a prohibited town, and, unlike you savages here, they said to him: "You can't get a drink anywhere except at the apothecary's." So he went to the apothecary, who said: "You can't get a drink here without a prescription from the physician," but the man said, "I am perishing, I haven't time to get a prescription." The apothecary replied: "Well, I haven't power to give you a drink except for snake bite." The man said: "Where's the snake?" So the apothecary gave him the snake's address, and he went off. Soon after, however, he came back and said: "For goodness' sake give me a drink; that snake is engaged for six months shead."
